Portage High School
Portage, Indiana
Volume 30.

Running a school can easily become a major production as is evidenced by the office help bustling about to complete their tasks.

The increasingly overcrowded conditions at Forage High School were visible this year. Bells ringed and out as can be seen by the overflowing traffic in the front parking lot.

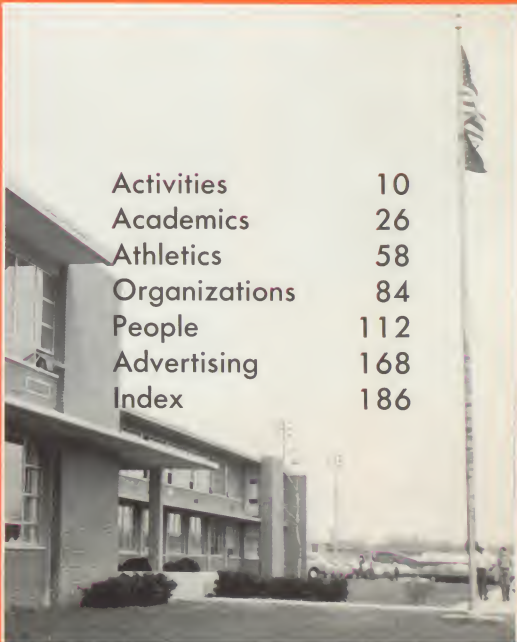

Silhouettes in the early morning sunlight "round the Block JROTC" newly added to the curriculum this year stand at ease during a study drill.

Over the teeth and over the gums, look the stomach, and it roars! It is the battle cry of many students as they devour their noon meal.

A favorite haunt used by the student to inter, converse, and litter, the jungle hall is rarely empty even when classes are in session.

Called upon to give practical applications to class work, senior George Miller reports to his sociology class on a current social problem.

It's hard to tell who is getting the worst of it when seniors strike seniors Gunn Behnke and Clark Spetz during the first snowfall.

In contrast to the overcrowding in hallways between classes in the middle of seventh hour, only a few students are found straggling in the G hall.

Physical education class enables students to unwind for an hour from their heavy load of academic courses with many varied activities.

Success.
We're number ONE!

Designating "we're number one," cheerleaders Diane Schunaker, Nancy Boim, and Jane Kelly watch the awards presentation after the sectional victory.

Varsity second stringers combined with the action on the court when all five substitutes are engaged in the first game of regionals. The Indians pulled up from behind to defeat South Bend Adams in a double overtime by only one point.

Long hours of practice pay off for orchestra members Pat Gerlach and Vickie Hrehov as the orchestra won a first in state competition.

Receiving first place on the uneven parallel bars in state competition is senior Judi Kirk. Portage took eleven state gymnastics championships.

As one of the few traditional honors awarded to sectional champs, senior Robin Berg cuts the first loop of the net from the rim.

Practice makes perfect testify band members Russ Marra, John Klesich, Robin Nelson, and Dwayne Tilford after taking first in state.

ACTIVITIES

1970 homecoming queen candidates excitedly congratulate Laura Salchert as she is proclaimed queen. Members of her court are Cindy Tesanovich, Judi Kirk, Debbie Vaughn, Linda Pisciatelli, and 1969 Queen Susan Tetrick who passed her crown to Laura.

Laura crowned queen following biggest spirit week in history

An all school pep session eighth hour October 2, was the finale of the biggest spirit week ever and the beginning of weekend homecoming events. Days were characterized by Indian headbands and cheers and nights were devoted to tying paper flowers onto chicken wire frames.

The parade after school had a new aspect this year as the entire football team rode in the parade along with the floats and cars.

Freshmen set the bonfire aflame and cheerleaders led a final pep rally immediately before the game and the "Ignited" Indians came through with a 21-12 victory over "Wirt's Troopers."

During half-time activities, 1969 homecoming queen Susi Tetrick crowned Laura Salchert as her successor while senior, Dave Byers, was named Mr. Football.

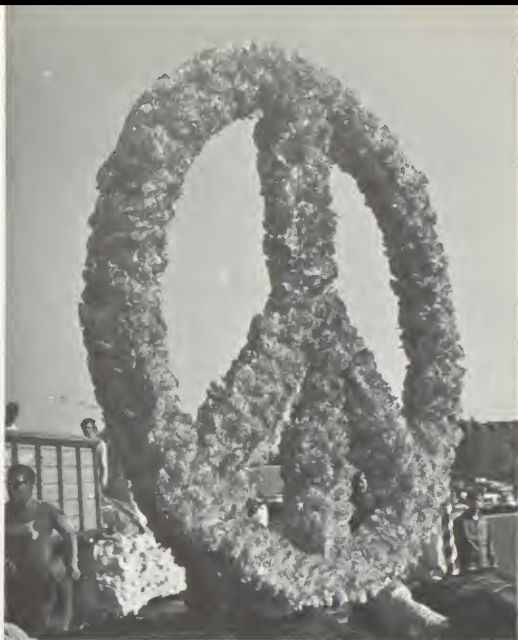

Couples celebrated the victory to the music of the "Last Generation" at the Student Council sponsored dance.

Leading students in cheers, Principal John Hevel and Assistant Principals Forrest Rhode and Floyd Johnson stir emotions of the pep session.

Tying for first place in float competition honors with Spanish Club, the senior class float, "Peace by Piece," begins its parade tour around Portage and the Mall.

In celebration of spirit day, seniors dressed as hordhats, garbage men, and cleaning ladies, parade throughout the painted school and courtyard.

Chris "LBJ" Lajcin addresses his fellow Americans during a pep session hoping to avoid the teams returning from sectional play with heavy hearts.

Making a special appearance during their tour of the United States, the Young and Free perform during one of the few convocations this year.

"Oh what fun it is to ride..." is the theme of senior Santa, Ronnie Cook, as he is pushed along by his little helpers during the Christmas convocation.

Attempting to bridge the generation gap, the Three Tootsies and o Toe; seniors Linda Piscioti, Phyllis Johnson, Gail Mohns, and Vickie Halle, perform their rendition of "Toot Toot Taatsie."

Variety Show moves to night performance

Changing the annual variety show from a convocation to a night performance cut down the number of convos at PHS this year. After some delay, the show was presented April 1, at 7:30 p.m.

"Trust Company," a six member band sponsored by Youth for Christ, entertained the student body in December. Classes were again interrupted in December for the Christmas convo.

During sectionals, students were excused from class for pep sessions.

Performing selections from "Jesus Christ Superstar," senior Greg Glisch accompanies senior Gail Mohns as she sings "I Don't Know How to Love Him."

Other musicians and vocalists in the number are Phyllis Johnson, Bob Lopez, Ted Waterspoon, Bill Gray, Rob Boumgardner, and Bill Samuelson.

In order to quench their thirst after dancing, juniors Jenny Stomper and Denis Jefferson are served punch at the Christmas Dance.

Listening to the music of Copri, juniors Teri Hefner and Ron Homer talk and enjoy the company of each other.

Four semi-formal dances offer break in monotony for students

October, November, December, and March were the months highlighted by semi-formal dances at PHS this year. "Indian Summer," theme of the Homecoming Dance, saw the crowning of Laura Salchert. The JROTC celebrated the corps' 100th anniversary with their military ball. "Incense and Peppermint" was the theme of the senior class sponsored Christmas Dance. Couples attending the annual Mardi Gras turnabout had a chance to "Wish Upon a Star."

JROTC queen candidate, sophomore Virgie Poore and her escort Jim Meeks waltz to the music of the Back Street Union.

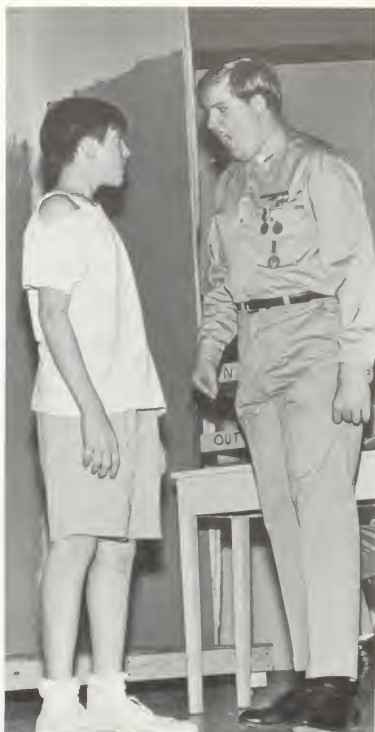

Trodilion reigns as Laura Salchert is crowned Homecoming queen by Dave Byers, Mr. Football.

Crowning Jodi Muffoletto as Mordi Gros queen, lettermen president Ken Hefner received advice from Bobb Kitchen and Allen England.

A sobre is presented to Maj. Malcolm Stewart by Col. Elmer Budlove following the crowning of JROTC queen sophomore Cindy Looney.

Drama students

Sakini, sophomore Don Gottschling listens apprehensively to orders from his boss, Colonel Purdy, played by senior Dave Lundstrom.

Japanese Villagers senior Tom Vondrosek and junior Pot Hill rehearse their wrestling scene in the jungle hall between classes.

master foreign tongues in season's first plays

Teaching the actors to speak foreign languages was one of the problems that new director, Mr. Neil Lane, had to overcome to present the first two plays of the season.

In John Patrick's Teahouse of the August Moon, 26 of the 32 member cast were required to speak entirely in Japanese. An interpreter, Sakini, played by sophomore Dan Gottschling translated the Japanese for the audience. Lady Astor, a goat from a neighboring farm, made her stage debut in this comedy presented in the high school gym November 20 and 21.

Night of the Iguana, often considered Tennessee Williams' most mature drama, was performed in February. Set in Mexico, the play revolved around a defrocked minister, played by senior Russ Willis. Junior, Jenny Stampfer, held the other lead playing Maxine, the owner of a small hotel just over the Mexican border. The drama was performed in the round in the Crisman Grade School gym.

Held by junior Bob Davis, Shannon, senior Russ Willis struggles to get free before Miss Fellows, Lorrie Justice can find the bus keys.

With the help of his fellow villagers, Jeff Bringman, the ancient man of Topeki explains the merits of a teahouse to Captain Fisby, Bill Boile.

Stricken by the death of her grandfather, senior Jeff Bringman, Honnah, sophomore Jennifer Youngmon looks desperately for someone to help.

Spring musical

At a clandestine meeting Liesel and Ralf (seniors Sherry Albaugh and Tam Vandrasek), sing "I Am Sixteen Going on Seventeen."

Captain von Trapp (Ted Waterspoon), takes time to "trip the light fantastic" with the governess, Maria Rainer.

Overjoyed with the return of Maria, the von Trapp children Liesel (Sherry Albaugh), Kurt (Ran Hayt), Marta (Renee Schavsky), Frederick (Norbert Martinez), Gretel (Kay Phillips), Brigitta (Becky Stiles), and Louise (Kathy Liscum) join her in singing "My Favorite Things."

employs over 150 to produce 'Sound of Music'

Angry over the Nazi take over of Austria, Captain von Trapp is advised by his fiancée Elso, junior Brenda Bennington, and his friend Max, senior Jeff Bringman that "There's Na Way to Stop It."

Forty-five cast members worked together with a 107 member production staff and directors, Mr. Neil Lane and Mr. James Killion to present the drama clubs spring production, "The Sound of Music."

Senior Linda Pisciotti starred as the postulant, Maria Rainer, while senior Ted Waterspoon played opposite her as Captain von Trapp.

Three junior high students and four PHS Drama Club members portrayed the captain's children.

The show, one of Rogers and Hammersteins most famous musicals, was presented April 30, May 1, 7, and 8.

Maria seeking comfort after leaving the von Trapp villa, is advised by Mother Superior, senior Gail Mahns, to "Climb Every Mountain."

Members of the pit orchestra decide "they deserve a break today" and put down their instruments to concentrate on Dairy Queen snacks.

"Out in the country," seniors Jim Lundie and Bruce Leeper dance with their dates to the music of Sov Amutulli and his orchestra.

Pausing to talk, seniors Tim Ricker, Paula Busch, Kathy McCormack, and Tim Knutsen relax and rest their weary feet under the apple blossom tree.

Over 400 escape pollution 'out in the country'

With the environmental situation heavy on the minds of Americans, over 200 PHS couples were able to escape pollution worries as they attended the 1971 prom and spent an evening "Out in the Country."

Juniors carried out the nature theme by decorating the gym with flowers, hedges, and a full sized apple blossom tree. A cobblestone path leading over a white bridge, the main decoration, outlined the grand march path. Couples were able to choose between two picture backgrounds, an arbor and a swing.

A smorgasbord dinner, and music by the Ivory Tower were featured at the after prom at the Canterbury Theatre.

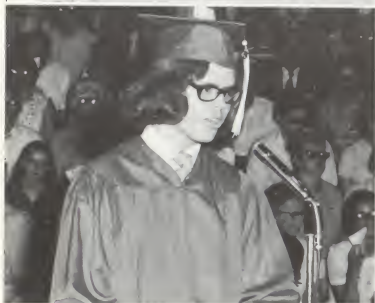

Amid the confusion of decorating for the prom, a group of juniors attempt to sort out all the materials and begin work.

Under the apple blossoms on a cobblestone path, junior Ron Horner and date Darlene Cunningham stroll around the gym on the Grand March.

Set on stage, seniors Art Logsdon and Jacque Guzik take time to rest and converse in the midst of a formal garden set before the horizon.

Valedictorian Carol Yovanavich and solutarian Russ Willis address the class on the value of communication and hair lengths, respectively.

Following the junior flower girls, the processional of the class of 1971 begins to the strains of Pomp and Circumstance.

Ninety plus degrees sets scene for graduation of 409 seniors

Marching out of a sweltering gymnasium to the strains of "The Processional March", 409 Portage seniors officially ended their high school careers Sunday, June 6.

With the thermometer reading 90° plus, graduation ceremonies began at 2:30 as the choir sang "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" and the Reverend Thomas Jeffries gave the invocation.

The salutation given by Russ Willis directly preceded Carol Yovanovich's valedictory address. After the two speeches and the song "Time for Living" the graduates, dressed in red and white gowns, came forward one by one to receive their diplomas from Prin. John Hevel. On cue from Mr. Hevel, the graduates turned their tassels and advanced from seniors to alumni.

Exuberant, graduate, Vickie Holle receives a congratulatory handshake from Dr. Lain Tetric who represented the school board.

Before commencement and baccalaureate commemo, Linda Gabin helps fellow graduate Debbie Vaughn fasten her white gown which all girls wore.

The high heat and humidity of June 6 was worsened when almost 3,000 parents, relatives, and graduates were crowded into the cramped quarters of the unairconditioned PHS gymnasium.

ACADEMICS

Freshmon Betty Winebrenner clenches her fist while sophomore Donno McCord steadies her hand while figuring out the blood type.

Magnifying an object under the microscope for a lab experiment study in botany and zoology class is senior Henry Ciesielski.

Space program members visit science classes

Researching, drawing, coloring, and the finishing touches are the steps members of Miss Pat Bortus' second hour general science class use in making a time line of the earth's history.

Members of the NASA space program visited all Portage science classes in the fall and explained the purpose and technicalities of the moon shots. Classes also saw a Portage police film "Marijuana" designed to present all sides of the pot smoking question.

General science students in some classes made a thorough study of earth history from the formation of the planet up to the present by constructing a timeline. The students worked a full six-weeks grading period on the 40 foot timeline.

Biology classes typed each student's blood, used microscopes to study the movements of amoebas, and dissected earthworms while physics students measured the waves of slinky toys.

Alligators, fish, frogs, and turtles found a new home in the biology vivarium this year.

Taking time out from his daily swim to have his picture taken is one of the many turtles who live in the science vivarium.

Seniors Scott Nelson and Mac Guffin measure the waves of a "slinky" in Mr. Jack Contwell's first hour physical science class.

Mathematics department purchases new books

New textbooks costing $6,244.32 were purchased for all eight types of math classes this year. The 1,262 books will be gradually paid for through annual student book rental.

Math teachers, considering adding a computer math course to the curriculum, borrowed a small computer for a trial demonstration. Students were allowed to work out and check assignments with the help of the computer. This way students learned both the assigned problems and how to work with the computer. However, due to the cost of such a computer, the new course could not be added.

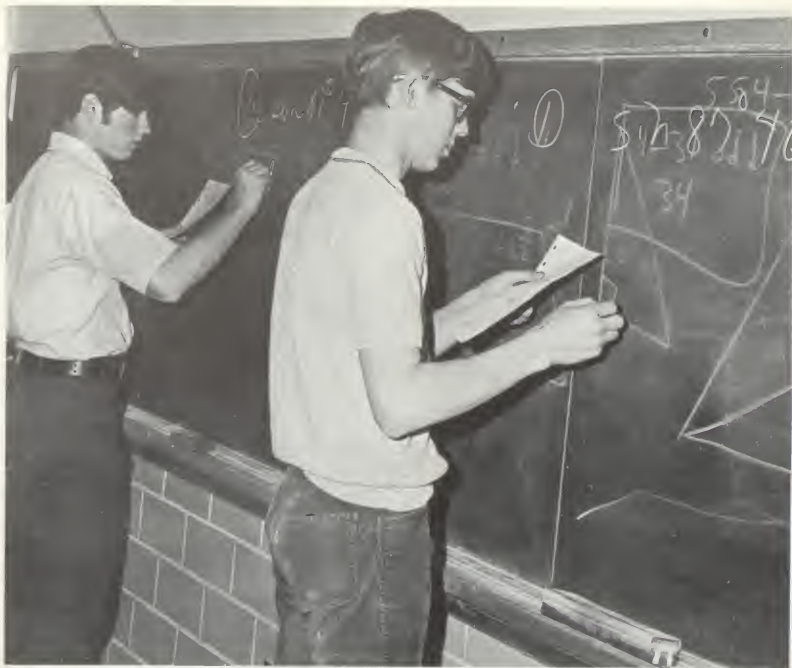

Six Portage students competed in a math contest in South Bend in April.

New books were distributed to math classes this year. Here, Mr. Elwood Mull records the number as he hands the book to junior Martho Hnolyk.

With the assistance of a computer and math teacher, Mr. Merel Whiteman, Junior Steve Glovo discovers doing his homework can be a cinch.

For a class project seniors Jim Combs and Bob Porch record the probability of rocks landing point up or point down when thrown.

Breaking the continuity of solving problems on paper, juniors John Smith and Larry LoHoyne work out their Algebra II homework at the board.

Pointing out the mistakes she made at the board, Mr. Charles Tones, student teacher to Mr. Robert Kellstrom, helps sophomore Brendo Nolond.

500 members of student body acquire fundamentals of typing

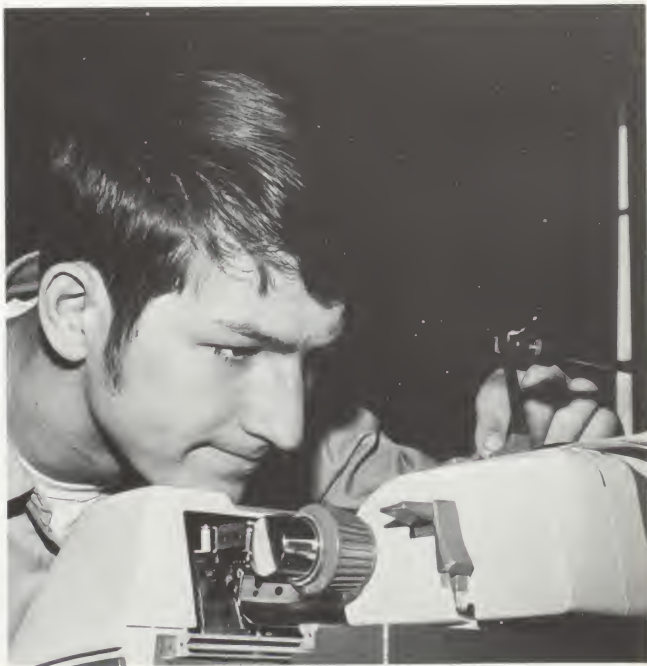

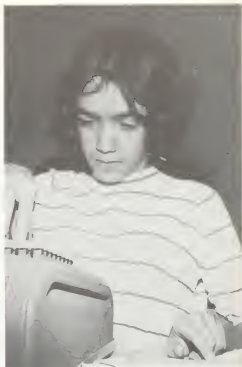

Five hundred PHS students learned the fundamentals of typing in 17 classes. Since one-third of the 123 typewriters were replaced this year, students learned to type on modern, efficient models. Along with typing, the business department offered shorthand, office machines, general business, office practice, salesmanship, bookkeeping, and business law.

Eighty students participated in the half-day work program, Distributive Education. The students worked at various jobs including lawyers' offices, auto agencies, hospitals, mail order houses, insurance offices, and a car wash. They traveled for their work from Hammond to East Chicago.

The philosophy of this department is that business is one area where a student can earn a living without any further education.

Junior Janet Sausman completes a homework assignment on the adding machine in office machines class.

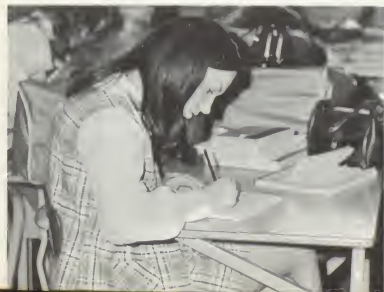

Stacking dog food is one of senior Loddie Lesnick's daily jobs at Tittles and Sons grocery store where he works half a day.

Studying data processing for a test in office practice class, senior Nancy Lomb reads her automation book.

With her headphones in place and her fingers poised, senior Cindy Tesonovich types the message she hears from the dictaphone.

Concentrating on her accuracy and speed, Caralyn King, junior, scribbles shorthand figures during a dictation.

Social Studies teachers given visual library

Utilizing the new visual aid library consisting of film strips, and slides, social studies teachers were able to make their classes more interesting. The new library was jointly purchased by the school and government.

Psychology instructors, using an "open" teaching method, enlisted the aid of a graphologist and hypnotist. Classes also visited Vale Day School for mentally retarded children.

American Problems, a course dealing with troubles in society was offered again. The Viet Nam conflict was one of the chief topics discussed.

Mrs. Jean Kelly, handwriting analyst or graphologist waits for sophomore Dottie Wasson to complete a sample of her handwriting.

Gesturing to illustrate his point, guest speaker Dr. Norman Robinson talks to psychology classes on the interpretation of nervous habits.

Chris Talbot, a Lyons Youth Exchange student from South Africa, uses a map to show Mr. Ronald Hancock's world geography students where social problems are developing in his native country.

Using an oversized tax form for the bulletin board, Mrs. Millie Taylor shows one of her economics classes how to fill out tax returns.

Underprivileged living and slum conditions were only a few of the factors encountered in sociology classes when senior Diane Vukovich, Junior Tony Reed, and seniors Tom Kuhn and Kai Nyby played the Ghetto Game in Mr. Buls second hour class.

Replacing slides on prehistoric man to the shelves of the new visual aids library located in the social studies office, Mr. Ronald Buls, social studies department head, checks to make certain that all the pockets are in the correct order.

Playing a guitar in class may seem a bit unusual except in Mrs. Mary Ella Barber's third hour English literature class, where junior Bill Gray, Jenny Stamper, and Sue Warrick enjoy singing a ballad in front of the entire class.

Researching in the reference room, senior Susan Behnke, jots down some information from the Readers' Guide for her term paper in senior composition.

Department changes, has seven new teachers

Tape recording an episode of Star Trek based on the fairy tale Hansel and Gretel, junior English students Sue Michael, Bruce Warren, Pam Riley, and Denny Sass demonstrate the effectiveness of a parody.

English and speech were divided into two separate departments this year leaving the English department with only 14 teachers, one half of which were new to PHS.

As an administrative attempt to determine the student body's knowledge of drugs, a questionnaire was issued in many English classes in March.

After extensive testing and a personal interview, three Portage juniors won trips to foreign countries through the Indiana University honors program. German students Patty Lock and Shelley Muller studied in Krefeld, Germany, during the summer while Marcia Williams, a Spanish student, spent part of the summer in Mexico. The foreign language department aided these honor students with over $1,000 profit made from candy sales after school.

Before answering the recorded questions on the unit conversation, Miss Lynn Rodda gives operating instructions to the class.

Sixth year German student Cathy Duda reviews an assignment with fifth year students Pat Lock, Martha Hnatyk, and Shelley Muller.

Classes stress news writing, communications

Beginning journalism classes were taught the fundamentals of news writing, lay out techniques, and how to respond to communications media in an intelligent way.

The responsibility of editing the school's varied publications fell to the advanced journalism students.

Pantomime, dance, and voice interpretation were delved into by acting classes. Dramatics students studied the technical theater and theater history.

Speech types emphasized in the required speech classes included informative, persuasive, and demonstration deliveries. Debate taught the importance of support of opinions.

Long hair on mole students comes in handy for junior Joanne Nelson as she gives a demonstrative speech showing the techniques of using an electric hairsetter. Junior Wally Schlink is her guinea pig.

Putting on an act, seniors Joyce Gaydos and John Greich rehearse a scene for their grade in Miss Fissenger's acting class.

Offering a new angle for an interview, student teacher Miss Cynthia Loch, directs sophomores Linda Parks and Marilyn Needham for journalism.

Members of Mr. Adamski's seventh hour advanced speech class participate in a group discussion about the current problems concerning the world.

SYMPHONIC BAND CLARINETS—Row 1: V. Brakulis, D. Dailey, M. Lesnick, D. Gole, P. Andrey, P. Johnson, M. Wehner, C. Cantwell, K. Gault, L. Wallace. Row 2: B. Baker, J. Faxx, M. Grich, M. Richardson, C. Larson, N. Thornton, R. Holm, R. Lewis, C. Allison, C. Smolias. Row 3: B. Nobles, L. Willis, R. Monette, M. Engel, J. Lundie, T. Baum, C. Spetz, J. Lemke, G. Hutchins, S. Kreischer.

SYMPHONIC BAND WOODWINDS—Row 1: D. Hedges, G. Rentschler, T. Dakos, A. Ostrout, T. Hefner, C. Leimbocher, B. Zernik, B. Elder, S. Lundie, B. Beaulieu. Row 2: J. O'Leary, K. Kendall, D. Cooke, K. Bowles, C. Leonard, B. Crisman, P. Klingensmith, G. Rentschler, D. Nelson, P. Morre. Row 3: D. Leuthke, L. Lesnick, B. Lambert, D. Cannon, P. Miller, G. Stroud, T. Weaver, J. Colvey.

Disorganization in band classes computers' fault

Computer scheduling hindered the band department in its attempt to form three separate bands including the new symphonic band. The computer failed to note the distinction between the concert and varsity band mixing the members of each between the two class hours. The two bands combined, the best of each meeting after school in a newly formed honor band. The symphonic band filled the void left by last year's concert band, becoming the PHS performing band.

The symphonic band went to contest in April at Fort Wayne and solo and ensemble contest at Chesterton. They also performed at other high schools in the area. Once again the band accepted the invitation to march down Michigan Avenue in the annual Christmas parade.

The dance band, consisting of 15 members, was scheduled to perform at four proms but had to decline because of conflicting dates.

Directing the marching band in its halftime formations on the football field, junior Scott Miloch wears the traditional drum major Indian uniform.

SYMPHONIC BAND TROMBONES AND CORNETS—Row 1: P. Campbell, W. Hoyer, D. Pauley, D. Tilford, J. Show, B. Cruikshank, R. Gent, P. Lock. Row 2: J. Mesich, J. Jeffords, S. Fulton, B. Deckord, G. Noelting, L. Lajcin, J. Hilliard, R. Myers. Row 3: J. Klingensmith, M. Honley, E. Moxson, D. Cunningham, B. Johnson.

SYMPHONIC BAND BRASS AND PERCUSSION—Row 1: A. Zerkoff, J. Tobey, J. Murrow, B. Chelf, K. Nelson, C. Schenk, R. Nelson. Row 2: M. Klekot, T. Anderson, R. Morro, M. Beech, R. Vos, D. De Vries, J. Brakulis. Row 3: J. Rennier, B. Cundiff, J. Reinhold, G. Mueller, L. Provins, B. Buckner.

PEP BAND—Seated: B. Beaulieu, S. Lundie, M. Wehner, P. Andrey, B. Zemik, T. Hefner, N. Thornton, C. Larson. Row 2: T. Weaver, D. Leuthke, D. Dolley, L. Wallace, R. Marra, M. Beach, C. Allison, P. Rennier, R. Gent, P. Lock, W. Hoyer, G. Stroud.

Mr. Joseph Bondi, orchestra conductor, directs the strings and the woodwinds as they perfect Bach's Fugue in G Minor for contest.

Pep band member John Copeland, junior, performs with the rest of the pep band of half-time of a junior-varsity basketball game.

Black maxi skirts are new look for the band and orchestra girls

Seventy-five black maxi skirts were made for the female members of the orchestra and bands. White blouses completed the girls' new uniforms.

Music theory, a new class returned to the curriculum this year, made it possible for 15 student musicians to study the fundamentals of music as well as harmony, notation, scales, and chords. Instructor, Mr. Martin Sensen-baugh, required the students to compose an original selection.

In addition to giving three concerts during the year, the orchestra performed at area grade schools in the spring. The orchestra contest at Fort Wayne was also in the spring while the NISBOVA competition was in February.

ORCHESTRA VIOLINS—Row 1: J. Van Proyen, S. Hendershott, T. Perri, E. Atkins, K. Phillips, M. Mesich, L. Anderson, C. Yovanovich. Row 2: J. Van Proyen, T. Pantea, D. Malney, J. Bencze, J. Moriy, T. Sweeney, D. Jefferson. Row 3: J. Sundman, L. Harzso, R. Wittwer, R. Wollen, D. Gattschling, J. Hamilton, R. Willis.

ORCHESTRA VIOLAS, CELLOS, AND BASSES—Row 1: C. Forwalter, V. Hreha, C. Roins, V. Roins, R. Rowe, J. Bringham, P. Gerlach, V. Halle, T. Sanidos. Row 2: M. Miller, K. Lutz, M. Brewer, L. Wendi, D. Shore, K. Mead, J. Baxter, R. Marjanian, M. Jacobs, J. Mesich, J. Devyak, W. Wathen, M. Tuttle, T. Burklow, R. Davis, J. Walker, J. Childress, T. Hendershot, T. Reed, J. Darall, B. Beaulieu, S. Warrick, D. Warren, L. Wallace, E. Atkins. Row 4: B. Tribby, M. Thomas, D. Babcock, J. Evenson, J. Kerr, B. Nobles, J. Guzik, P. Caanrod, D. Hickenbottom, J. Lundie, D. Pazabyt, R. Arden, D. Lundstrom, M. Beach, M. Delmage, W. Suantmer, J. Wilson, B. Vignary, F. Mahns, V. Miller, D. Oaks, C. Allison, J. Hirt, L. Papineau, J. Nelson, G. Burton.

Senior accompanist Carol Yovanovich sightreads a new arrangement, one of 25 songs chorus classes are required to learn.

Jackie Kammer, Lisie Kitchel, and Faye Mahns, saphamores, harmonize on the melody, "Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel?" in chorus class.

Sherry Albaugh, senior, rehearses her solo in one of the many numbers Choroliers sing in a performance.

After packing up the old choir robes, unpacking the new and hanging them, junior Rito Marjanian admires them.

Choral robes new investment of PHS choir

With $2,695 collected in previous years from candy sales, Adam and Eve beef dinners, and other money making projects, the music department was able to purchase new navy blue choir robes. The robes arrived in January in time for the second concert.

In the fall, choir director Mr. Roger Lindquist chose the 100 member choir from 348 students in 4 chorus classes.

Tryouts for Choroliers were also in the fall and Mr. Lindquist selected 16 of the best singers and 2 accompanists to be in this group who fulfilled many singing engagements.

Choir members entered solo and ensemble contest in February and the entire choir competed at Elkart. Mr. Lindquist, choir director, stated his philosophies of success in choir. "It's a lot of work and those who loaf get nothing. You gotta wanna."

Portage's new printing classes take field trip to Post-Tribune

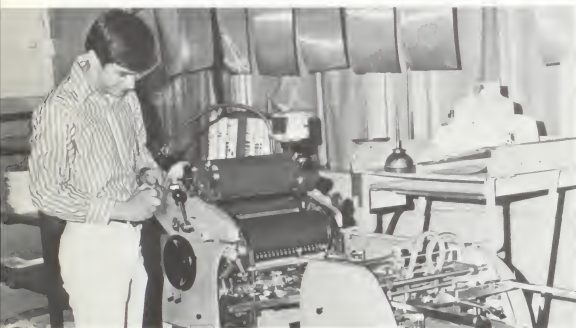

Graphic Arts classes became a part of the schedules of 33 PHS students for the first time this year. In addition to printing programs for various school functions and POW WOW make-up sheets, the printing students joined the beginning journalism classes on their spring field trip, a tour of the Gary Post Tribune. Instructor, Mr. Martin Troglio taught two one-hour printing classes and a three-hour vocational printing course.

In art classes, last year's bead craze was overtaken by macramé, the ancient Arabian art of tying knots. Other projects undertaken by the art students were pillows, afghans, polychrome techniques, and portraits.

Inserting papers into the hand-feed press, sophomore Cory Joger runs off more copies for a school department.

Setting up the offset press for use, Tony Fonce, senior, prepares to run the large, efficient machine.

Having finished the background of his water color painting, senior John Grich blocks in the tree trunks.

Preparing a line for printing, junior Gerald Shadrix picks out letters and sets type by hand, one of the basics of printing class.

David Barst and Barb Crisman, senior art students, work with macramé a series of knots, used as belts, vests, or rugs when finished.

Home Economics classes have variety of learning

Varied learning experiences were encountered by students enrolled in home economics classes.

Guest speakers and related field expeditions highlighted many class hours.

The home nursing classes supplemented their basic nursing techniques and emergency treatments with a trip to Vale Day School for mentally retarded children.

Wendy Ward from Montgomery

Ward department store spoke to the beginning and advanced sewing classes on fashion designing and buying with tips on principles of line, design, color, and texture.

Marriage and family classes heard from local insurance men during the year about the variety of insurance coverages available to families.

Boy's home economics and beginning food classes learned the basics of consumer buying and simple food preparation.

Using common knowledge and sense, senior girls competed for the title of Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. Kathy Bowlby, winner, was then eligible to enter nationwide competition for a $500 scholarship.

All home economics classes helped in the preparation of the departments annual style show in May.

Spooning out the creamy white meringue, baker Don Riley puts tender loving care into the lemon pie he has just prepared for senior home economics classnotes.

Looking at the Betty Crocker Cookbook, Mrs. Louise Zeigler, home economics department head, and senior Kathy Bowlby, winner of the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow test, prepare menu plans.

Juniors Doris Soberg and Sue Borns measure the window frame before making curtains as a housing project.

Chopstick techniques used in eating the Japanese food that girls in Mrs. Sommers' home economics classes prepared are shown to senior Alice Foster. The girls sit in Japanese style in kimonos borrowed from the drama department to make the occasion seem even more realistic.

JROTC installation ceremony takes place on Trumble Field

On Trumble Field September 18, members of the first junior reserve officers training corps at Portage were formally inducted. General Robertship, Mayor Arthur Olson and Gary Mayor Richard Hatcher were present for the induction.

The JROTC boys took 3 field trips during the course of the year visiting Glenview Naval Air Base, the Hoosier Boys Town at Scherrville, and the officers training post at Quantico, Virginia.

At several home basketball games a JROTC color guard presented the colors.

The cadets drilled every Wednesday in class and on Saturday mornings. The drills were basic military marching and manual of arms, teaching the cadets how to handle weapons.

The Health and Safety classes made a hazard survey. They checked the school grounds, noted all the safety hazards, and reported them to the administration.

262 future drivers learned proper driving skills, safety habits, and Indiana traffic laws in their Driver's Training class.

Co-ed classes gain popularity with PHS students

Freshmen boys in second hour Physical Education class seem to be playing pat-a-cake, but are actually doing rhythmic squat thrusts, a part of their ten minute daily calisthenics.

Increased interest in a co-ed gym class forced the PHS physical education department to reduce recreation from a two semester course to one semester this year. Recreation offered a chance for students to participate in games such as volleyball, basketball, and football, as well as learning good sportsmanship.

Leadership, also a co-ed course, was composed of 29 juniors and seniors who assisted grades 1-3 in recreational activities at Central and Kyle schools on Fridays during the first semester. For two days in the spring, they taught first-aid, crafts, and outdoor games to sixth graders visiting Goodfellow Camp.

All students fulfilled the two year physical education requirement as 38 gym classes were taught each day. Both girls and boys gym classes played volleyball, basketball, and other organized games along with a daily exercise program.

Adding the finishing touches to his project, junior Cory Piscioti sands down his mogozine rack in woodwork class, one of 10 basic shop classes offered at Portage.

Building trades' 6-room house complete after two years work

As the completion of a two-year project, a six-room, corner lot, ranch-style house with full basement and two car garage was put up for sale by the vocational building trades class. The house was built in Leeper Subdivision instead of Sarasota Heights as in the past years.

The building trades class was one of 10 basic shop classes offered at PHS. These classes were divided into three categories: industrial arts, vocational classes and the co-operative classes in which students were able to hold steady jobs and attend school.

Industrial co-operative training is the half-day work program for senior students working in trade skills including all areas of work, from factories to dentists offices.

In all the shop classes the project being completed was secondary to the skill being taught. All deadlines and schedules were exchanged for the perfection of the skill.

In preparation for making aluminum cannon balls, seniors Mark Honely and Jim Gunning cast sand over a pattern in the machine shop.

Maintaining his balance, senior Larry Hicks, hoists a beam to the ceiling of the building trades house in Evergreen Meadows.

Gaining knowledge of machines and their construction, junior Larry LaHayne drafts sketches of them in machine drawing.

Disassembled car parts clutter the auto service room as Mr. Robert Gray discusses the action of a piston with April Petilan, junior.

"And now here's a man about whom no clever things can be said . . . Mr. Bond."

With similar introductions of the faculty members, PHS students waited apprehensively for the award and its recipient to be announced at the annual Awards Night, May 25, 1971. To the awe and joy of many, nearly fifty thousand dollars in scholarships were awarded to deserving, outstanding, college-bound students. Different areas of education such as business, music, art, speech, journalism, and foreign languages gave their awards. Drama Club, Quill and Scroll, and the National Honor Society were among other groups honored with ribbons, trophies, and plaques. Among the outside companies who acknowledged top studentes were Inland Steel, and General Tire Foundation.

ATHLETICS

Finney selected MVP, All-State offensive guard

The Big Red Machine ground to an even 5-5 season with the direction of first year grid coach Les Klein.

Several members of the team were noted for outstanding performances during the year.

Senior guard and MVP Steve Finney was among those on the All Lake-Porter Area first team along with senior Jim Langendorfer.

Indians named on the Honorable Mention All Lake-Porter Area list were seniors Ken Hefner, Chris Lajcin, and Dave Byers.

Tallying 24 conference points, and 10 TD's overall, junior Ted Harper was the Duneland Conference scoring champ.

Scoring 4 TD's on the ground and three in the air, Hefner accumulated a total of 661 yards for 111 carries on the ground and 161 yards in 10 pass plays.

Spearing 17 passes, Langendorfer grabbed three in the end zone and gained 318 yards through the air lanes.

Named to the All Lake-Porter Area Honorable Mention list, senior Ken Hefner sweeps around the end during the Homecoming game.

Taylor, D. Meanovich.

Posting a disappointing 2-4 record, the JV team nevertheless showed great potential, according to second year Coach Jim Gazdick. Freshman gridders finished the season with a 1-3-3 record.

With sophomores Jim Hatala and Bo England calling the plays, the JV team accumulated 63 points while their opponents scored 78 points against them. Top scoring positions were held by sophomores Jim Smith, Tom Schmidt, and Steve Gloss.

The freshman team, with freshmen Kelvin Riley quarterbacking and Larry Sparks working the backfield, summed up 60 points for the season as there were 94 points scored against them.

"The freshmen showed little desire," according to Coach Bruce Sheriff, "and haven't experienced winning." The team has only two wins since seventh grade.

Frosh undefeated for season; varsity ends with 7-2 record

Placing fifth out of fifteen teams, the harriers advanced to the LaPorte Regionals for the first time in cross-country history.

In addition to regional honors, the harriers brought home trophies from the New Prairie, LaPorte, Hobart, and Highland Invitationals.

Leading the team were All-Conference runner Tim Thomas and lettermen Doug Pauley, Al Vaught, Tom Thomas, and Dave Swanson.

The frosh team ran an undefeated season and brought home the Patriot Invitational, Valparaiso Jamboree, Westchester Invitational, and Hobart Invitational trophies.

Top runners for the frosh team were John Brown, Tom Sanidas, Doug Sweeney, Norm Chadwick, and Larry McEwan.

Tim Thomas was selected by the team as Most Valuable Player.

Concluding his two mile course and finishing a close second behind teammate Tim Thomas, Doug Pauley sprints to the finish gate.

Senior netman Mike Trocht sliced the ball back to his Hobart opponent on the Indian Hunting grounds for a PHS 5-0 victory.

Combs, Tetrick take Duneland title and MVP

Taking all honors in the Duneland Conference meet, the PHS netmen, led by coach Jerry Kaiser and in its third year of existence, placed second in the Gary sectional on Gilroy Stadium courts.

Jon Tetrick, junior, achieved first place in the Duneland Conference meet in the singles division. Seniors Bob Porch and Ron Arvidson took first in doubles competition with seniors Jim Combs and John Van Wagner close behind placing second.

The doubles team of Tetrick and Combs placed second in sectionals as the Portage team also placed second losing to Valpo by only 2 points.

In regular season play the racketmen finished with a 9-3 record. Scoring 42 points Portage had only 25 points scored against them.

Tetrick finished the season 7-2 in singles, the best among the tennis squad, and was selected MVP along with Combs.

An underhand recovery is demonstrated by senior John Van Wagner on the Indian home court for another victory.

Many hours of practice pay off as singles champ of the Duneland Conference Jon Tetrick, junior, makes another fine return.

Brushing off competition, senior Jim Combs slams what turns out to be a deciding point in a heated home match.

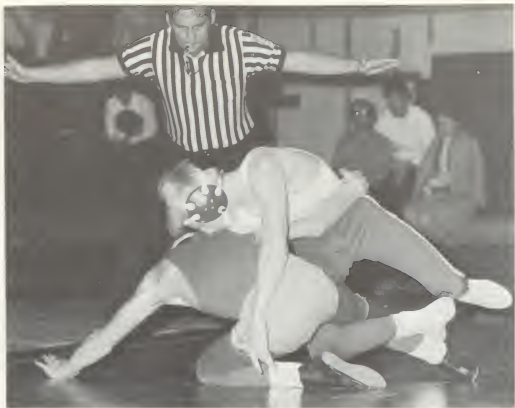

In an effort to escape his opponent's grip, sophomore Jim Hatala grimaces with exhaustion at a meet against the East Gary Eagles. Hatala not only won that match by a 6-3 decision, but the Indian squad blocked out East Gary, 40-0. Hatala's over-all season record ended at 4-4.

WRESTLING—Row 1: E. Hall, L. Herndon, J. Hatala, P. Campbell, J. Swindle, R. Cook. Row 2: Coach Bruce Sheriff, T. Landrum, S. Finney, B. Samawski, T. Reed, R. Harton, K. Kendricks.

PHS grapplers win 1st regional finishing 8-3-1

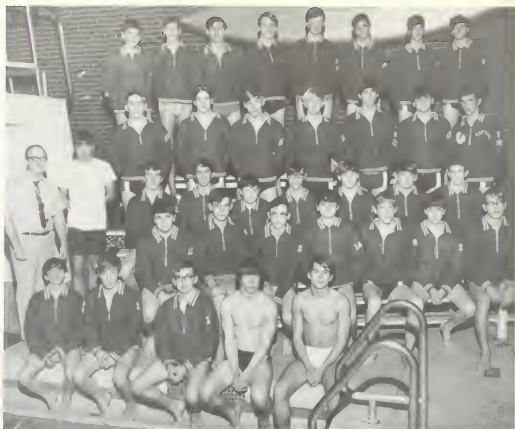

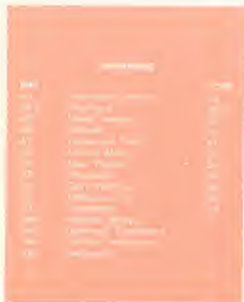

Senior Ron Cook led the grapplers to the first PHS regional victory in history, the team finishing 4th in the state. Captain Tom Landrum did a lot to boost team spirits, according to coach Bruce Sheriff, and was the backbone of the team.

Taking third in state competition gave Cook the distinction of being the highest state finalist for Portage. He was the sectional and regional champ in the 98 pound weight class.

In addition to Cook, PHS had two other sectional champs. Senior Ernie Hall, who wrestled in the 102 pound class, was undefeated in 12 dual meets. Sophomore Jerry Swindle was the other sectional champ, competing in the 127 pound class.

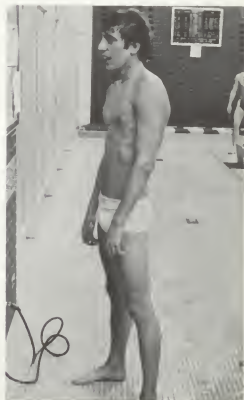

The matmen ended the season 8-3-1 and took close seconds in the Duneland Conference meet and in the sectionals behind Hobart, whom they had beaten earlier in the season.

Junior grappler Bernard Samowski concentrates in recalling energy to gain ground against his opponent at the Duneland Conference meet.

Senior Dove Tarrant takes time out during practice to check the work out sheet to see what stroke he will be practicing next.

Coach Carl Somers takes split times during meets to find where the swimmers need work and arranges the practices accordingly.

Starts and turns can make the difference between winning and losing an event and possibly the meet so the end of practice is devoted to sprints where the most starts and flip turns can be performed. Seniors Clark Spetz and Mack Guffin start their leg of the 50 yard sprint.

Tank team takes 4th in sectional, winds up 8-3

Shattering five school records and tying another, placing 4th in sectionals, and an 8-3 dual meet season highlighted the tankmen's first season under the direction of coach Carl Somers and assistant Bruno Bielat.

Senior Dave Tarrant was the major record breaker lowering three events, one three times, and tying a fourth.

Tarrant claims the 200 yard free, 2:06.5; 50 free, 24.5; and placed 21 in state; he lowered the 100 free three times for a final time of 54.7; and tied the 60 yard free at 30.7, a 1965 record held by Dean Rulis. Tarrant is also the Duneland Conference Champ in the 100 freestyle.

Co-captains Dave Lovell and Tom Thomas both hold the record time in the 400 yard freestyle with a 4:45.5 mark.

Junior Tim Sarasin broke the diving mark in the Duneland Conference meet raising a total of 349.20, breaking a 2 year record held by John Hinshaw.

Gasping for air, senior Tim Knutsen completes the breast stroke leg in the 400 yard Individual Medley relay in the Munster Relays.

Selected to the sectional team, senior Chris Lojcin goes up for "two" in the championship game against Morgan Township.

Senior Dennis Horner edges past a helpless opponent as he prepares for an additional two points to win a 77-70 victory over Crown Point.

Portage cagers win sectionals, defeat South Bend in regional Cutting down the nets for the first time in fifteen years, the PHS cagers defeated Valparaiso to go on to beat Morgan in the final game of sectionals.

Senior Jim Langendorfer led the Indians to an 82-81 victory over the Vikings with 36 points, the highest score in any game this year for a Portage cager. Chesterion proved to be tough as Valpo by also falling by one point, but small Morgan was no match for the Indians as they lost 76-53. Senior starters Dennis Horner, Chris Lajcin, Jim Langendorfer, and Jim Combs were named to the sectional team.

Going on to regionals the Indians defeated No. 7 ranked South Bend Adams 78-77 in an overtime on Horner's 22 foot jump shot with two seconds left in the game, to capture Portage's first regional victory. Lajcin was named also to the regional team.

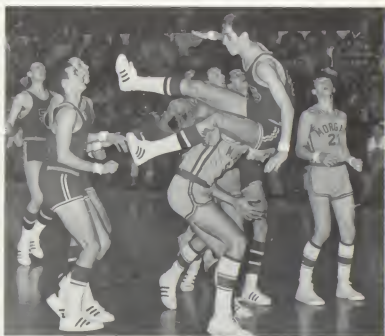

Ending their regular season with an eight game winning streak the varsity cagers raised their record to 12-8. Losing the first two games by only three points the Indians bounced back winning four games before falling into a six game slump. Defeating Calumet 78-73, the Indians began their winning streak which continued until Michigan City beat the cagers 85-62 in the championship game in the regionals.

Langendorfer led the team with 399 points, shooting .411 from the floor and sinking 155 free throws for an incredibly high .820 average. Lajcin handled the boards for Portage along with Combs with 207 and 204 rebounds respectively.

Langendorfer was selected MVP by his teammates.

Coach Marrie Goodnight, jubilant after a rewarding sectional victory, holds the championship trophy while watching the team cut down the other net.

After driving in for a lay-up, senior Jim Langendorfer falls on a Margon defender while other players watch the ball fall through the hoop.

JV closes 13-7; frosh finish with winning season

Led by sophomores Terry Burklow and Rick Sabo, the reserve cagers ended the season with 13 wins and seven losses. Both freshman teams had winning seasons.

Burklow pulled down 46 offensive and 95 defensive rebounds taking the number one position in the rebounding category. Sabo led the cagers with 57 buckets for a .335 shooting average and 45 free throws for a .789 average at the charity line. He also headed the team with 45 assists.

The frosh "A" and "B" teams ended their seasons with 11-4 and 8-4 records, respectively. Freshman Russ Lindner dropped 221 points to lead first year coach Michael Cavanaugh's "A" team with a 14.7 points per game average in 15 games. Robin McCormick led the "B" team, coached by Mike Lemond who is also a first year coach, with 118 points and a 9.1 points per game average in 12 games.

"A" team starter Russ Lindner drives around a Boone Grove defender. Lindner was high scorer for the frosh with a total of 221 points.

Driving the base line, freshman Robin McCormick eyes the basket for two more points before the "B" team defeated Michigan City Elston 46-39.

Varsity batsmen take Duneland Conference title

Ending the season with a winning record and capturing the Duneland Conference title, Coach Larry Casbon's batsmen finished with a 9-6 record.

Going into the Duneland Conference tournament Portage faced Chesterton and by defeating them 4-3 went on to play Valpo for the title. The Indians then swept by the Vikings 6-1 taking the second Duneland Conference trophy.

Leading the Portage batsmen was infielder Jim Langendorfer with a .428 batting average and catcher-infielder Chris Lajcin close behind with a .411.

Senior Dennis Horner led in the pitching bracket. Pitching 48 innings Horner netted 5 wins and 3 losses while striking out 52 men. Junior Tom Taylor took the number two spot with one less win than Horner and 61 strikeouts.

With 6 wins and 4 losses the junior varsity team, coached by Mike Lemond, also boasted a winning season.

Heading the reserves with a .572 batting average was sophomore Steve Meonovich. Ken Bradford led the pitching division with two wins.

Lajcin was selected MVP by his teammates.

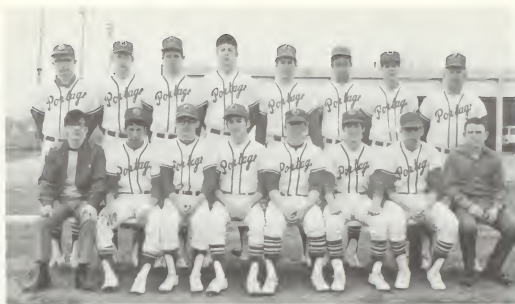

Grabbing the throw from the pitcher, senior firstbase-mon Chris Lajcin attempts to catch a Wirt runner off guard before losing the home game 10-2 to their opponent.

Cindermen win conference title;

Coons, Tetrick break records

Qualifying four for regionals and bringing home the Duneland Conference trophy, the varsity track team ended the season with an 11-6 record.

Breaking school records were juniors Jon Tetrick and Dave Coons. Tetrick, during the season, set the new record at 6'-2" for the high jump, then raised the mark to 6'-3" during sectionals. In another field event Coons set the new pole vault record at 13 feet, breaking the old record of 12'-6" set by Tom Winn in 1970.

The track team, dominated by juniors, took six firsts in the Duneland Conference to push by Hobart 66½ to 50, while Chesterton and Valpo scored 37 and 22½, respectively. The Indians also bagged three seconds, seven thirds, and four fourths.

Both the mile and the 880 relay teams took firsts, along with Tetrick in the high jump, Coons in the pole vault, sophomore Rick Sabo in the broad jump, and Axel Swanson in the 880 yard run.

Placing fourth in sectionals the cindermen sent three jumpers and one runner to represent Portage in the regional. None placed for state competition, but three placed better than ninth.

Varsity vaulters Bob Barthel and Dennis Tinsley prepare the pole for their jump in which they placed second and fourth, respectively.

Clearing the bar junior Jon Tetrick continues on to the six foot mark placing first in a triangular home meet.

Placing first in the running broad jump sophomore Rick Sabo leaps through the air with a 19 foot eight and three quarter inch jump.

Stompers, SSS win volleyball championship

Highlighting the 1970-71 intramural program were football, basketball, and volleyball.

Due to the fact that there was no place to play softball Mr. Arol Amling, sponsor, set up a volleyball league.

There were 14 teams and over 140 people participating.

Leading the Stompers to first place was captain Ron Arvidson, while the S. S. S. captained by Mark Delmage took the consolation bracket.

Winter saw the Bonkers and the Schmedlys place first in the senior and junior basketball divisions, respectively.

Flag football entered its second season on the intramural program with junior Jerry Mason leading the "Men of '72" to the championship title.

Golf winds up season 8-4; Dunn selected MVP

Selected Most Valuable Player by the team with consecutive low scores in meets, Junior John Dunn practices his driving swing in preparation for the up-coming sectionals.

The golf team coached by Bruce Sheriff swung to its first winning season with a dual meet record of 8-4.

Based on his consecutive low team scoring, junior John Dunn was chosen Most Valuable Player by his teammates.

The team fared better in dual meets, as they placed a disappointing 22nd out of 31 teams at the LaPorte Invitational and third in the Duneland Conference tournament.

In sectionals the golfers placed 9th at the Pheasant Valley Country Club.

By placing third, Dunn advanced to regionals, the only golfer ever to do so.

GAA gymnasts took top honors in 11 out of a possible 15 to take the state championship.

PHS had three double state finalists. Nancy Harris was the intermediate bar and beginning free exercise champion.

State champ in the intermediate vaulting and all-around performances in the beginning level was Cathy Skomp. The third dual champ was Jane Kelly on the intermediate free exercise and all-around performance in the intermediate level.

Other state finalists were Diane Mathis, advanced beam; Cheryl Pendleton, intermediate bars; Debbie Gillespie, intermediate vaulting; Debbie Lawson, optional vaulting; and Judy Kirk, second year state champ on the optional bars.

Basketball also showed great strength by reaching an 8-3 record. The GAA field Hockey team split the season with two wins and two losses.

Honor Society helps sponsor variety show

As a fund raising project National Honor Society along with the Drama Club co-sponsored the fourth annual Variety Show "Now and Then" that took place April 1 in the gym in an evening performance.

The NHS also posted the honor roll every six weeks under Mr. Elwood Mull's guidance.

Major among the Student Council's accomplishments this year was the attempt to meet every other Friday on a regular basis to discuss matters of importance. More visible of its projects were the traditional Homecoming activities climaxed by the annual crowning of the queen at half time of the football game.

As Mrs. Doris Lock searches for pins and cards a new Honor Society member junior Denise Leuthke patiently waits for hers to turn up.

Floyd Kalber

at spring dinner

Floyd Kalber, NBC newscaster, highlighted the annual Quill and Scroll banquet for all journalists. Mr. Kalber spoke about current events and answered questions from the group about political figures and the different phases of broadcasting.

Top awards were presented to Russ Willis, Ethel Jones Outstanding Journalist; Jennifer Youngman, Outstanding Cub Reporter; and Debi Haines, Gary Post-Tribune Most Valuable Staffer. Honor keys and certificates were also awarded to students who had earned points for their work in the publications. A test was given to all students who qualified for Quill and Scroll. Fifteen members passed the test, met the requirements, and were inducted as official members at the banquet in the spring, bringing the total membership to 24.

Quill and Scroll members assembled a display in the trophy case in the fall, symbolizing National Newspaper Week.

Floyd Kalber, NBC newscaster, spoke to parents, students, and teachers at the journalism banquet. After speaking, Mr. Kalber answered questions from the group about current news and events.

A traditional part of the annual Quill and Scroll Banquet is the initiation of new members. While holding symbolic candles, students recite the pledge.

Top drama awards were presented at the Red Lantern Inn May 22; Russ Willis, best actor; Jenny Stamper, best actress; Gail Mahns, best supporting actress; Jeff Bringman best supporting actor.

Thespians host annual dinner at Red Lantern

Top drama awards were presented at the annual banquet at the Red Lantern Inn in Beverly Shores, May 22. Trophies for acting, backstage, directing, and set construction were given to Thespians and Drama Club members who had worked to make the productions this year successful. This year, two senior members were awarded the Rowena Kyle Scholarship. Sue Christakis and David Lundstrom were both given $100 scholarships to the college of their choice.

"Good-night Caroline," a comedy skit, was presented by a few senior Thespians during the Variety Show.

After putting on three successful plays during the school year, the Drama Club had time to participate in a number of community projects.

The three productions this year included a comedy, "The Teahouse of the August Moon," an adult drama, "The Night of the Iguana," and a musical, "Sound of Music."

The Drama Club visited Vale Day School at Christmas and Easter, giving skits for the small children.

Because of the departure of Mr. Dennis Norman, Drama Club members received two new sponsors, Mr. Neil Lane and Mr. James Killion. Mr. Lane is primarily in charge of the Thespians.

Drama Club members and English classes traveled to see Mr. Killion in his direction in "Mame," which was their field trip for the year.

The annual Variety show was a combined effort of both Drama Club and the National Honor Society.

FTA members also experienced a change in sponsors this year. Dr. J. Earl Hefner took on the job of directing and teaching the future teachers of this area.

To add extra expense money to their treasury, PHS pins and stationery were sold. A sock hop, one of three, also brought in more money.

FTA members attended both the Area Conference and the State Convention in Indianapolis. At the area conference, juniors Alby Zatkoff and Teri Hefner were chosen Mr. and Miss FTA (alternate).

Junior and senior members of the group journeyed to Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana to tour the campus and to experience college life.

Because of the successful outcome of all projects, both clubs boosted the amount in their treasury with which to work next year.

"Night of the Iguana" was presented in the round at Crismon School this year, so prop chairman Oso Nyby and Sue Michael had to make sure that all props and costumes were locked in trunks for safe-keeping.

New curtains for the stage were purchased this year by the school to help make Drama Club productions more professional.

Juniors Richard Hawkins, president, and Terry Baum, Spanish club member finalize plans for the coming trip to Chicago.

Foreign language football game ends in tie

On a blustery November afternoon, members of foreign language classes joined together at PHS's Trumble Field in the annual German-Spanish Club football game. Teachers acted as referees. German Club led throughout the game, but with two minutes to go, Spanish Club tied it up at 10-10.

The Spanish Club float, "Boot the Troopers," tied with the seniors for first place in the homecoming festivities. Miguel Pous' car was used, this marking the first time that a car was used for a float.

Both Spanish and German Clubs traveled to Chicago, where they dined at authentic Spanish and German restaurants, then viewed plays in their respective languages.

As in the past years, both clubs threw a Christmas party for all members. The two clubs participated in decorating Christmas trees, thus displaying the Christmas spirit.

Iris Basse, German Club member, hangs up her ornament as her contribution to the tree at the German Club Christmas meeting.

"Boot the Troopers," the Spanish Club homecoming float, tied with the senior class float for first place during half-time ceremonies. This was the first year that the float was made from a car.

Military Ball commemorates birthday of Marines

Commemorating the 195th birthday of the Marine Corps, the Portage ROTC Unit hosted a Military Ball on November 10 in the PHS cafeteria. A birthday ball queen, sophomore Cynthia Looney, was chosen from five candidates. The dance included a cake-cutting ceremony with the first pieces going to the youngest and oldest cadet members. Lt. Col. Elmer Budlove, Indiana Reserves, Lt. Col. Lowell Enslen, Reserve Marine Officer, and Dr. Ralph Kelly, school superintendent, were guest speakers.

The group raised funds for the Hoosier Boys Town in Schererville, by selling Christmas centerpieces. Nearly $250 was donated. The rest of the profit went to buy cadet shoulder pads.

Ninety-nine cadets, accompanied by Major Stewart, senior military instructor, toured the Naval Air Station and 9th Marine Air Reserve Training Center. Highlight of the field trip was a performance for the center's drum and bugle team.

Lt. Col. Elmer Budlove, Indiana Reserves, attended the 195th birthday Ball, where he spoke on the ROTC Unit at Portage High School.

Two departmental clubs feature speakers, tours, competition

Two departmental clubs, Business Club and Speech and Debate, featured a different variety of meetings for the members of their groups.

Speech and Debate mainly consisted of taking trips to area speech contests. Members participated in the competition at Lake Central and Chesterton High Schools and at the Rotary Club. They also took part in the VFW speech contest. Travelling to Central Elementary School, members presented a talk to the students informing them on the high school curriculum. The school speech contest in April was also sponsored by Speech and Debate.

PBC featured many speakers from the world of business, such as a speaker from Sears Roebuck & Co. A representative from Montgomery Wards, "Wendy Ward," spoke on cosmetics and hair grooming suitable for the business office. The group also toured ITT, a computer data processing company.

Sammie Maletta, Speech and Debate president, practices using gestures, a very vital part of any speech entered in competition.

"Wendy Ward," representative from Wards, talked to PBC members about cosmetics, grooming, and hair styles during a PBC meeting.

Competing for state titles in chess at the annual chess competition were Jeff Hilliard, Chuck Kolivas, Scott Barrett, and Harry Berndt. The newly formed chess club, sponsored by Mrs. Sylvia Schenk, has 22 members. They met independently after school to practice among themselves.

As a major project Health Careers Club distributed posters dealing with tuberculosis to various Portage businesses to promote the buying and using of Christmas seals.

SCS sponsored the use of the electronic voting machines during the election last fall. Judge William S. Suarez also came to talk to the club about different social problems.

Brush & Palette member receives $2400 award

Brush and Palette member, senior Russ Marra, received a $2400 art scholarship from Indiana University, one of seven offered by the college.

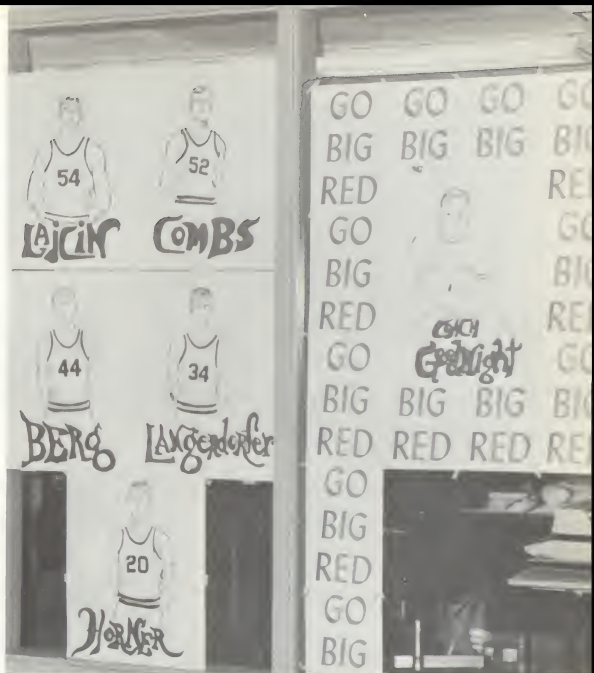

At the Tri Kappa Art Exhibit, many members of the club participated. Barb Chrisman received a third place for her ceramics of the monkey, and Russ Marra was presented a second place ribbon. Members also participated in the Scholastic Art Exhibit, but failed to place.

Russ Marra, president of the art club, was granted a $2400 scholarship by Indiana State, one of seven scholarships that were offered.

Corsick, the Magnificent, Bill Bailey, predicts PHS's chance in the sectionals of the Pep Club pep session.

Pep Club helped arouse school spirit by painting signs and windows around PHS. Most of the signs were around the cafeteria and the main office and depicted the faces of the basketball players.

Local businesses contribute money for Sectionals

"We're Na. 1" was the frequent cry after a Portage victory, whether in basketball or in football. All members of the Pep Club helped to make this saying true by their group support at all games.

With the help of local businesses contributing money, Pep Club was able to obtain the use of busses to transport members to and from sectionals. Name cards were also used for each member of the team, thus adding school support and enthusiasm. All pep sessions and convocations during sectionals and regionals were sponsored by Pep Club.

To add to the money already in their treasury, Pep Club sponsored a car wash, bake sale, and sold spirit booster pins.

PHS almost obtained boy cheerleaders this year, but there was too much opposition.

Varsity cheerleading squad consists of six juniors

The six Varsity cheerleaders attended a 4-day camp in Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, this year. The girls were taught 12 cheers a day at "Camps All American"—100 chants in all.

To raise money for the cheerleading fund, all cheerleaders sold "Go Big Red" license plates for $1.25. The first sock hop of the year was traditionally sponsored by the cheerleaders.

Two changes became effective this year—the varsity squad consisted of all junior girls. A new sponsor, Miss Juanita Viera, was also chosen.

The cheerleaders received new uniforms, and also decided to use pom poms.

Pow Wow staff increases publications to weekly

Working on the Pow Wow staff meant learning new techniques. David Borst, senior, discovers that it is not as easy as it looks, to "paste-up" a page of the paper.

The Pow-Wow tried something new this year—they changed publication from bi-weekly to weekly. This made new and extra problems for all members of the staff, especially the reporters, because news was hard to find.

Staffers did most of their own "paste-ups," by using the shop facilities, thereby taking over some of the work of the printers.

A special feature on pollution was written by Robin Nelson. The story received praise and attention from many public officials, such as Edgar D. Whitcomb and Vance Hartke. Robin wrote other features about skiing, overcrowding in the school, and driving carefully during the holidays.

Russ Willis remained editor-in-chief all year, in contrast to last year's staff which changed editors each semester.

Changing the publication dates to weekly was extra difficult, because members of the Pow-Wow, Legend, and News Bureau were not able to obtain the use of a new room upstairs near the darkroom. Switching to this new room would have meant extra space for all staff members.

Yearbook design goes 'mod'; color highlights opening section

The Legend went "mod" this year, as the cover was changed not only in style but in color.

Staffers were pressured into last-minute work-nights in order to meet their five deadlines. Cramped work space in the Legend office made work-nights seem extra long.

Work began last summer on the Legend, when editor-in-chief Susan Behnke, layout editor Gail Mahns, and copy editor Sue Michael, attended a two-week workshop at Ball State University. Photographers Bob Crestani and Louis Lajcin also attended the session, where they were advised to the make-up and preparation of a high school yearbook.

Attending Ball State for a two-week workshop were Susan Behnke, editor-in-chief; Gail Mahns, layout editor; and Sue Michael, copy editor.

News Bureau gets late start; Saga printed in school shop

Preparing and editing news stories for various newspapers around the area was the main task of the seven students in News Bureau. The class had been eliminated during the summer, but reinstated in the second grading period with the hiring of an additional teacher in the English department. This freed Mr. Robert Rhude to supervise the class which met every day first hour.

The Saga Staff, dominated by juniors, started to work second semester because of a lack of materials to work with the first semester. The co-editors of this year's Saga were juniors Sue Michael and Beanie Beaulieu. The printing took place in the print shop by Mr. Troglia, and the cover was designed by junior Pam Riley. The Saga Staff was sponsored by Mrs. Mary Dold.

Double checking the spelling of a name, senior News Bureau staffer Chris Weber copy reads her story for accuracy before it is printed.

NEWS BUREAU STAFF—Seated: Marcia Williams, Bob Horo, and Kathy Hayes. Standing: Chris Weber and Ken Hefner. Working together they wrote news stories to send to various area newspapers to be published. The class, taught by Mr. Robert Rhude met every day first hour.

SAGA STAFF—Row 1: B. Hara, B. Stiles, S. Michael, Mrs. Dald, sponsor, B. Beaulieu, O. Nyby. Row 2: V. Halle, A. Boume, K. O'Guin, L. Wallace, J.

Saga staff members Sue Michael and Miguel Pous edit stories that have been submitted as possible copy for the Saga.

News Bureau staff member, Junior Kathy Hayes checks a paragraph of her story for grammatical errors before meeting a deadline.

Two service clubs provide visual aids for school

Two service clubs assumed the responsibilities of taping and recording some of the different occurrences in and around the school. Video Tape filmed several debates and also many sporting events. The club began a "first" this year, when a girl joined the group. The lab assistants helped the teachers in the language lab, by working with tape recorders and microphones.

OEA, Office Education Association, dispersed their members to nearby offices and stores in Portage, so that they might gain work experience by actually "being on the job."

The annual banquet was again in April, with some of the employers of the members in attendance. The dinner was a combined OEA-DECA-ICT sponsored event. Members were awarded, along with their employers, certificates for service in the field of business. Entertainment was provided by humorist Florence Murray. Mr. Forrest Rhode attended as Master of Ceremonies.

GAA turnabout

Relaxing for a few minutes at the annual turnabout, the Mardi Gras Dance sponsored by the GAA are sophomore Debbie Horper and her date.

Congratulating Joyce Tobey on her fine display of sportsmanship during interscholastic sports is Mrs. Judy McNeill gymnastics coach.

Preparing to take their coronation dance, Mardi Gros queen and king, seniors Jodi Muffoletto and Allen England, congratulate each other.

dance highlights organization's social calendar

"When You Wish Upon a Star", theme of the 1971 annual Mardi Gras turnabout dance, sponsored by the GAA provided a chance for girls to treat their favorite fellow to a night out. Reigning as king and queen of this year's Mardi Gras were seniors Allen England and his date Jodie Muffoletto. Two representatives were nominated from each class and winners were selected at the dance.

As fund raising projects the girls in GAA sold Christmas candles and plaques.

Selling GO BIG RED towels this spring was the main money raising project of the Letterman's Club. The Letterman's Club also operated the concession stand at all home games throughout basketball season as another means to raise money.

Displaying a GO BIG RED towel sold by the Lettermen as another fund raising project are seniors Steve Finney, Eric Dye, and junior Dave Shoshuro.

Counting the correct change at one of the home basketball games is senior letterman Dave Byers while his fellow letterman Allen England looks on. In order to raise money the Letterman's Club operated the concession stand during all home basketball games.

Freshmen join in governmental activity at PHS

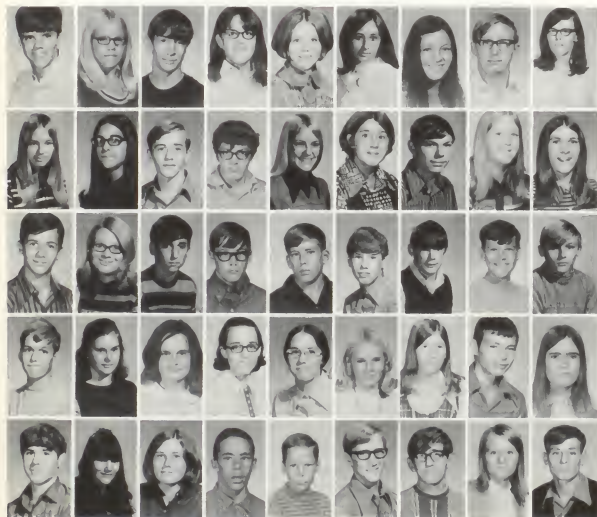

Freshmen entered high school bringing howls from upperclassmen, especially from seniors who were removed from the traditional senior hall which the freshmen invaded. Incoming freshmen began the trend of keeping the same locker through their four years.

The highlight of the year, the homecoming bonfire, almost failed to take place but through the class' efforts it was salvaged and a roaring success. Another high point for freshmen was the participation in their first spirit day.

PHS freshmen also followed in the traditional enthusiasm for sports by being undefeated in cross-country and making an outstanding effort on teams.

Writing minutes for the president Greg Godsey and vice-president Terri Parks, is secretary-treasurer Penny Baker. Their duties include organizing the class party and other fresh activities.

Sophs prepare for spirit week; purchase rings

Prepared for another challenging year of academics and activities, sophomores arrived at PHS after their eventful freshmen year.

The first challenge sophomores faced was their planning of sophomore Spirit Day and the class float. "The time has come" was the theme of the float which won second place. A large red bomb carried out the theme.

The highlight of the year was the voting and ordering of class rings in March; the rings arrived in May.

After a theme and band for the class party was planned, the band cancelled and the party was postponed indefinitely.

Sophomores of the GAA gymnastic team won five out of the possible 15 first place state ribbons. Seated are Kathi Skomp, Debbie Gillespie, and Missie Grich; standing are Nancy Harris and Caren Clausen.

Junior spirit day and float unites Class of '72

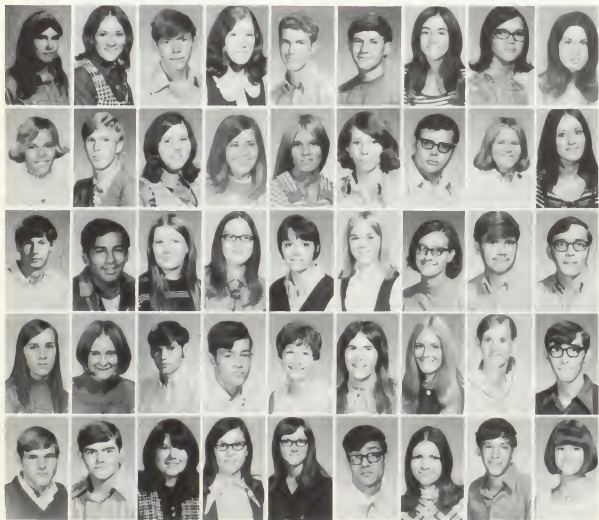

The class of '72 pushed its way into its third year at PHS by working on homecoming projects, primarily the class float and junior spirit day. "Tee Pee the Troopers" served a double purpose as the theme of both junior spirit day and the class float. Juniors were not surprised at receiving last place after the homecoming parade.

The themeless class party and candy sales united the class again in the month of November. At the class party "The New Bluffing Cheese" entertained only a minimal turn out of juniors. Candy sales fell short of the expected goal of $3,800 with a total of $2,956.84. Over $300 was not turned in until later dates, which made it hard to calculate the exact amount of profit.

Meadows, flowers, and trees characterized the theme of the junior-senior prom "Out in the Country" May 15. The Canterbury Theater in Michigan City accommodated all couples that attended the after prom.

Juniors Patty Lock and Tom Taylor examine a pamphlet about the World Affairs Tour which they attended in Cincinnati, Ohio, during Easter vacation as Mr. Dennis Bond, adviser, looks on.

Seniors create memories in final year at PHS

The class of 1971 may look back on their last year at PHS and recall many memorable events.

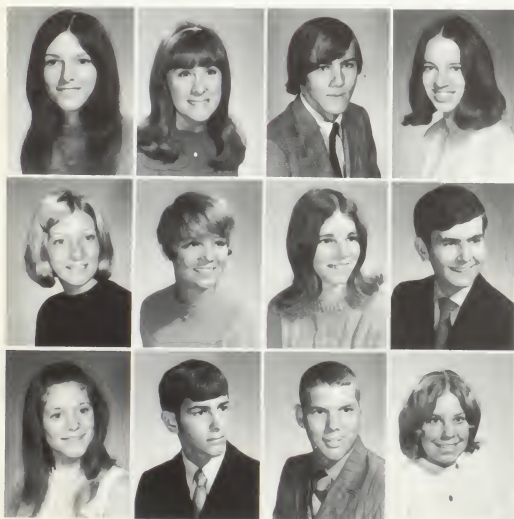

Homecoming found seniors scurrying around with their brooms and scrub-brushes relating to the theme of "The Big Red Machine Cleans Up." Their spirit outmatched the underclassmen to gain top honors in the spirit week competition. Seniors combined their efforts again on the senior float, "Peace by Piece," which tied for first place in the annual Homecoming parade.

"Incense and Peppermint" was the theme of the annual Christmas dance traditionally sponsored by the seniors. The semi-formal event commenced the upcoming Christmas holidays.

Leading this year's class of 409 were Carol Yovanovich and Russ Willis with a 4.0 and 3.960 grade averages respectively. Carol plans to major in music while Russ' interests lie in speech and drama. Both plan to attend Indiana University.

Four hundred and nine anxiously awaited diplomas in long white rows lie ready to be delivered during the traditional valedictory address given by Carol Yovanovich.

Supplied with complete banking service, Portage National Bank, the newest and most modern bank in the area, assists many people each day. Located only two blocks east of the high school on Central Avenue, the bank is open six days a week and is furnished with handy drive-in windows.

Area businesses provide miscellaneous services

The Ben Franklin dime store features a tremendous variety of supplies to fit the needs of practically any occasion and also offers a discount to all Portage clubs. The store is conveniently located in the Mall with ample parking.

Supplying Portage with its newest banking facilities, Portage National Bank provides quick and easy service six days a week, plus a convenient drive-in window. Just east of the Portage Mall, the bank is centrally located in the city's business area. Phone 762-3102 for information concerning accounts and loans.

Offering the latest fashions for young women and teens, Beverly's provides a great opportunity to Portage girls to extend their wardrobes.

Yamaha of Gary, located at State Road 51 and U.S. 6 in Hobart, provides a complete stock of Yamaha cycles and snowmobiles. For more details call 962-4770.

"Say it with flowers" from Kellen's florists in Hobart who provide delivery to Portage daily. Call 942-1197 to place orders.

You can't strike out at Ben Franklin's as seniors Cathy Gabbert, Linda Gabin, Debbie Vaughn, and Lauris Shurr agree.

Junior Jone Kelly models some of the new fall fashions sold at Beverly's, a women's apparel shop, in the Mall.

Flowers from Kellen's Hobart Flower Shop make a memorable gift as Junior Miguel Pous presents freshman Karen Doiley with some roses.

Provided with a complete stock of Yamaha Cycles and snowmobiles, Yamaha of Gary, located at State Road 51 and U.S. 6 in Hobart, also services them and sells their parts.

Discussing the many benefits of mortgage loans with juniors Debi Lawson and Marilynn Thomas is Mr. W. E. White of White Mortgage Company.

Efficiency and reliance prove foremost with local businesses

Concerned with conventional or V.A. and F.H.A. mortgage loans, W. E. White Mortgage Company, located in the Portage Mall, strives to serve its customers in the best and most efficient way possible. For any additional information pertaining to specific loans, company hours, or simply general facts about the business, telephone 762-7791.

Jerry, along with several other competent, pleasant operators, specialize in styling, shaping, dying, tinting, cutting, waving, and trimming hair plus many other styling techniques. Appointments should be phoned in ahead of time at 762-3383.

Identified by the appropriate motto, "Strictly down to earth", C. Murray Smith Realtors provide full service real estate by the professionals Murray and Mary Smith. Also, a complete appraisal service is available. Their office can be easily reached in the Portage Mall or appointments for further information can be obtained by telephoning 762-3161.

Stocked with pharmaceutical and sundry supplies, Mall Drugs, located in the Portage Mall, is an excellent place to fill all your needs. Russell Stover Candies, Hallmark Cards, cosmetics, and gifts are just a few of the items available, plus a free prescription delivery is offered as an added convenience. Simply telephone 762-7380 to place orders.

This modern, streamlined apartment complex in Bender's Ridge is only one of the many buildings and land sites handled by Portage Realtor C. Murray Smith.

Up to something tricky are seniors Linda Gobin, Cathy Gobbert, Debbie Vaughn, and Laurie Shurr, while displaying various Halloween masks found at Mall Drugs.

The experienced beauticians of Gerald's Coiffures on Hamstran Road come in very handy when a trim or a set is needed, as senior Peggy Stark has already found.

San Bonns, in the Portage Mall, has an assortment of Hallmark Cords, gifts, candles, and stationery for every occasion.

Juniors Leona Wosson, Osa Nyby, Carol Jackuro, and Cheryl Avidsan seem to be extremely pleased with the Port City Insurance Service.

Waiting behind four convenient service windows, employees of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Portage branch, await the daily surge of customers.

Taking a step back in time, freshmen Diane Alvarado and junior Kathy Hayes cuddle some of the "childhood friends" sold in Miller Drugs.

Closed for the winter months, the Dairy Queen remains dormant until spring when Portage citizens take time to "live a little."

Pupils identify area merchants as beneficial

The perfect shop for any type of gift or card is San Bonns in the Mall. Phone 762-2845 for large party orders.

It pays to save and borrow at First Federal Savings and Loan Association at 6031 Central Avenue.

Offering all types of insurance plus coverage on hospitalization and casualties, Port City Insurance Service satisfies its customers with dependability.

For a refreshing treat for any member of the family, Portage Dairy Queen on Central Avenue has everything from buster bars to fiesta sundaes.

Miller Drugs, located at 540 South Lake Street, not only provides Rexall Prescription service but also carries other health needs and sundries.

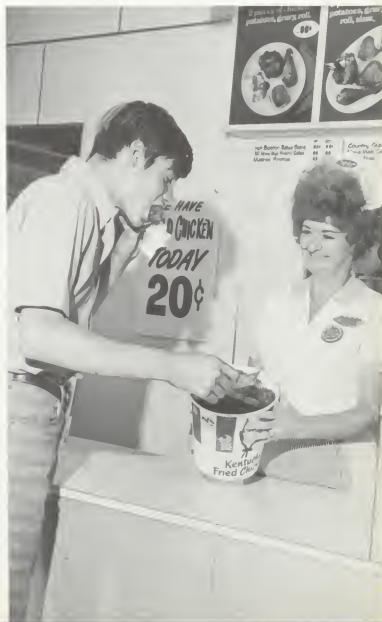

The advantages of full service banking are apparent to freshman Dione Alvarado, a prospective depositor, as the intricacies of opening and maintaining a checking account are explained to her by Mr. Robert Schumaker, vice president and branch manager of the First National Bank in Portage.

Juniors Debbie Lubold, Debi Lawson, and Marilyn Thomas try to help each other with their "problems" at the Portage Professional Pharmacy.

PHS students aided by a variety of businesses

Juniors Debbie Lubold and Shelley Muller help load the van used by The New Portage TV in order to make home service calls during the busy day ahead.

The Portage branch of the First National Bank on Central Avenue, provides full banking service, including checking, saving, commercial and installment loans.

Portage Professional Pharmacy is appreciated when prescriptions are needed. Call 762-4011 for free prescription delivery service.

The incredibly crowded Portage High School campus in this aerial view, for the first time in nine months is uncrowded and sits empty.

Awaiting a ride to her new future at a large hall, Sherry Albaugh, senior Sherry Albaugh prepares to face the brave new world.

Having completed the day's homework, Mike Cooper finishes the period in his study hall by reading a magazine article.

From frightened frosh to graduation
we grew and learned through competition, friendship, disappointment,
and success.
All these we have Encountered.

After sending everything off to the printers Susie Behnke and Gail Mahns lie exhausted, finished in more ways than one.

Many people contributed time and effort to reach this accomplishment—
the record of a year.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

A special thanks goes to Robin Nelson, Harold Wendt, Jeff Knutilla, Root Photographers, and Wide World Photos for their assistance in photography.
